@ zhengtao's home (apple map & Amap □□□□)

To learn a dance is to encounter a world and oneself at the same time. From dance floors to streets, from rehearsal rooms to stages, dance carries our emotional expression and cultural memory. Dance is an embodied knowledge. It is hard to fake or lie with. For our second gathering, we will watch films on the theme of dance*. Some options:

Rize (2006) On Krump dance

- Asian diaspora in the U.S.

Walk Run Chacha (2019) □□□□□□□□
Chinatown Chacha (2024) □□□□ “The 92-year-old previous nightclub dancer Coby Yee decides to get back on stage again after joining the senior dance troupe Grant Avenue Follies.”

- Other choices

Paris Is Burning (1990)
Salsa: The Motion Picture - (1988)
The Tango Lesson (1997)

We’ll talk about these films and make choices on the site. Come to enjoy a fun watch with friends, and prossibly some dance :)
