[quip] i can’t just let you know i think of you when i think of you i can’t just let you know i think of you when i think of you because i think of you every minute —

for so many occasions n so much emotion converting them all into words would be a sin to living —

Alas! one cannot live and write at the same time